The internet safety talk turnout was very disappointing. This means we cannot help and advise you on how to keep your children safe online. At Ravens, we know that some of our children are not being safe online. Statistics show that 54% of children believe it be safe for them to meet a stranger they have met online. 25% of children have revealed their name online and 25% have revealed their home address. If enough parents feel the need for another session to be hosted then please let the office know. Thank you.
